Digium® Announces Springs Hosting as a Select Reseller

New Reseller Brings Full-Featured Phone Systems to Businesses in Colorado

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., and Colorado Springs, CO, March 16, 2009 — Digium®, Inc., the Asterisk® Company, and Springs Hosting today announced their partnership to bring Switchvox IP telephone systems to small and medium sized businesses in Colorado.

Digium is the creator, sponsor and driving force behind Asterisk; the most widely used open source telephony software. The company's product lines include a wide range of hardware and software to enable resellers and businesses to implement turnkey solutions or to design their own VoIP systems. Digium provides the award-winning Switchvox family of turnkey IP PBXs for small and medium enterprises. In addition, for custom implementations, Digium offers both commercially licensed and open source versions of Asterisk as premiere development frameworks for application builders looking to leverage the power of Asterisk to create custom telephony solutions.

Springs Hosting is a Data Center located in Colorado Springs, CO providing IT services to businesses along the Colorado Front Range. Springs Hosting provides state of the art data center services including VOIP Phone Systems, offsite backups, collocation facilities, dedicated servers, security infrastructure and web/email hosting services. Springs Hosting was founded on January of 2006 and continues to bring and implement advanced technologies to mainstream businesses.

“We are proud to add the Digium product line to our services,” said Jeremy Keefe, CIO at Springs Hosting. “Switchvox compliments the services that we bring to small to medium sized businesses in Colorado and brings high-end phone systems to businesses that otherwise could not generally afford the rich feature sets within Digium’s software.”

“We are excited to have Springs Hosting come on board with Digium as a Select Reseller,” said Jim Butler, director of global channel sales for Digium. “They are dedicated to their clients and provide excellent customer service, which are qualities that we find highly valuable in our resellers.”

About Digium

Digium®, Inc., the Asterisk® Company, created, owns and is the innovative force behind Asterisk, the most widely used open source telephony software.
